A MONUMENT FOR JEFFERSON DAVIS.CARL THOMAS W. MAYO, member of the Ittend Commission, has accepted an invitation to deliver an address at Morganton, July 18th. This is the day set apart throughout the South for raising the amount needed for completing the fund to erect a monument to the memory of JEFFERSON DAVIS. This action of the citizens of Morganton is along the right line, and we hope that every town and village in the State will hold similar meetings and that a united effort will be made to erect a monument that will fittingly commemorate the services of Mr. Davis.We congratulate the people of Burke upon the acceptance by Carl Mason of the invitation to speak to them. He is confessedly one of the most eloquent speakers in the State, and is one of the few men we know who is a born orator.
Our Burke friends have a great treat in store for them.DO PREACHERS BELIEVE WHAT THEY PREACH?

(From Asheville Citizen)

The heresy trial is a record of barbarism, a relic of savagery. It is not of roasting flesh," says R. W. Thomas Dixon. Surely this is a sensational exaggeration. The Presbyterians have a perfect right to ascertain whether, judged by a majority of their best minds interpreting their creed, Dr. Briggs is a proper man to prepare young men for the Presbyterian ministry. That if that he is not, does not bar Dr. Briggs from heaven, or from further expression of his opinion at any time. It simply redefines Presbyterian doctrine and prevents the spread of wrong conceptions concerning it. It is easy to see how many false standards one teacher of Presbyterian theology might instill who had in charge young men to whom he was appointed to light the way.
The harm that might result, from a Presbyterian point of view, would be incalculable. There is no persecution in a church deciding whether its teachers are teaching true doctrine. Some supervision there must be, in this as in everything.But it is doubtful if Dr. Briggs teaches in the harm that is made possible by Dr. Winchester's remark:"There is a brief present that energy men today are not honest; that they believe things they dare not preach, and that they preach what they do not believe and what they feel certain in their own minds is not true."Once let this opinion make anything like a universal highway and there would be empty churches all over the land as a result. Laymen can pass over small doctrinal errors, but not to have faith in the honesty, the sincerity of your pastor is to desert him forthwith. Dr. Winchester must be mistaken. It cannot be a common belief that "clergymen (and preachers) what they do not believe" in other words, are liars.

THE NEW YORK PREACHERS.

Some Extracts From Their Sermons of Last Sunday.

(From an interview with Rev. Dr. Bridgeman.)

If every Baptist preacher is to be told that even on such an unscientific thing as the quality or the duration of future punishment he must be in accord with all that some professor may teach, or some editor print, then the Baptist cause, so far as individual liberty is concerned, is utterly worthless.

From a Sermon by Dr. Parkhurst.

Our church had sent out a box of clothing to a pastor's family in the West.
The head of the family, an uncompromising anti-revisionist, wrote back that he had heard of our church's strong in favor of revision. He didn't think that revisionists possessed sufficient of the grace of God to care whether people were clothed or not.No one has more respect for those than to a man. Appear to be tying a life chain for 300,000,000 to ground for the 20,000,000 who have been bound to that up to this time. It hurts me to hear such a church in which "gravy" is bound to a sermon.

From a Sermon by Dr. Winchester.

clothing to a pastor's family in the West.
of the grace of God to care whether people were clothed or not.There is a brief present, the preacher said, that clergymen to day are not honest; that they believe things they dare not teach, and that they preach what they do not believe and what they feel certain in their own minds is not true.

From a Sermon by Rev. Thos. Dixon.

The heresy trial is a record of barbarism, a relic of savagery. It belongs to the coarseness and ignorance and superstition of barbaric times. It smells of roasting flesh. Is it not time to banish this relic of superstition and barbarism?
Can it give any force to the cause of Christian life to day? No man can enter into the trial of a heretic and take Jesus Christ with him."

From a Sermon by Rev. Heber Newton.

Our great creed is the reconciliation of Christianity with itself. Christendom is torn and dismembered before our eyes.
It is paralyzed with doubt. It is directed with the contentions over dogma.
Through every branch of Christendom the strife of creed is seen. The mind of man is seeking a creed firm for his faith under which he can rest with intellectual honesty and with spiritual satisfaction. Could our Protestant churchesto lay be content to part with their Lutheran Creeds or the Nicene Creed which has come down through the centuries, and is by our own church held forth as the common heritage of all who profess and call themselves Christians, there would be an end of strife and contentious.
